capitalÂ Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Extensive listings and expert advice on where to stay, where to eat and what to do

Since deciding that growing up and getting a proper job was highly overrated at the tender age of 18, New Zealander Jessica Lee has travelled extensively in Asia, Africa and Latin America. A small obsession with humour and a large obsession with nomadic people led her to the Middle East in 2004 where she fell in love with the Arabic language and the incredible hospitality of the people. She has lived there full-time since 2007, working as a tour leader as well as a writer. When not on the overland trail between Cairo and Istanbul, she can usually be found among the fairy chimneys of central Anatolia where she is attempting to renovate a cave-house.

It's a shame that this well written and comprehensive guide book doesn't cover the remainder of this little country as it does such an EXCELLENT job of covering the central region concise, compact, handy book

The info in this guide appears to be excellent, but the print is so tiny I can barely read it. It makes it more difficult to use than I like, and wouldn't mind carrying around a slightly bigger book that I could read more easily.

Helpful tourist book of Beirut.
