Walking Alone

Synopsis

âœWalking Aloneâ• is a story of a young girl, Karmen, who wants to leave the family farm and join a Catholic convent. Her motives are driven by her growing distaste of farm life and a father she believes doesnâ™t love her or understand her blossoming interest in her newly baptized faith. Once Karmen enters the convent, she becomes quickly swept up in the solemn magnitude of the Christian faith under the watchful eyes of the other young aspirants, Mother Superior Joan Madeline, and Bishop Talbot. But, as time passes, her eyes begin to open to the reality of all faiths: ideologies are pure, but not so pure when humans try to make them their own reality. In the end, Karmen must rely on what she learned on the farm with her family to salvage what is left of her friends and her future.

Customer Reviews

Couldn't put the book down finished within a day and a half. Had to see how it ended. Recommend the book..

This is an interesting portrayal of a hard working farm/miner's family just getting by in all aspects. The oldest girl, with a deep feeling her family and the church, decides to become a nun. The story pulls you in and holds you with the interesting, and sometimes disturbing, interactions between all the characters, ending the story with a most unexpected and heart breaking ending. - Georgiana
