My daughter loves bundt cakes and wanted to make her own, this was one of two books I got her. And now I reaped the delicious benefits.

Great ideas for bundt baking! Â Â Â

I love cookbooks and I love to bake. I'm a big fan of bundt cakes. Mostly they are homey, uncomplicated and don't require a special trip to the grocery for ingredients. For me a good bundt cake is for grownups, not overly sweet, mostly don't need frosting. Perhaps best of all a bundt provides lots of portions for your effort so it had better be good. I was surprised at how uninspired I was by the the recipes in this book. Unless this is your first baking book you probably already have recipes for most of what's in the first chapter of this book. The second chapter is more innovative, but the cakes are overly sweet. The third chapter "for food snobs" has the oddest recipes. If Fuyu Persimmon, Lemon Basil (the third lemon recipe in the book), Mojito, Kumquat-Coconut with Tarragon, Olive Oil Rosemary, Honey Jalapeno or Cornmeal Lime with Chili, sound good to you, this may be your book. Also, this author likes Creme Fraiche a lot and tells how to make it, but it alone takes two or three hours. I think you can do much better. Try Maida Heatter (possibly the best baking author ever) Dorie Greenspan or Nick Malgieri all are excellent. If you're looking for out of the ordinary and don't mind a special trip to the grocery try David Lebovitz whose recipes are innovative and delicious.

Just an awesome book!

Great product and exactly as promised. I would recommend this seller to friends and family.
